Sometimes it seems there just aren't enough hours in the day to take care of life's little details.

The last thing you want to do is to spend precious time on the phone or standing in line at a government office. That's why accessIndiana, the state's official Web portal, offers more than 220,000 pages of information and hundreds of interactive services that make conducting business with Indiana government easier than ever.

This Citizen Service Guide will make using accessIndiana even simpler. First, the guide introduces accessIndiana's 14 content categories and provides valuable examples of the types of information and online services that can be found under each category. Then, it explains many of the portal's valuable features and quick links. It concludes with information about accessIndiana's myLocal.IN.gov program, which is helping Hoosiers across the state connect with local governments' online services and information.

All of accessIndiana's Web portal content is divided into the following 14 content categories, which serve as the primary way to navigate the state's Web portal:

- About Indiana
- Business
- Tourism and Recreation
- Labor and Employment
- Education and Training
- Licensing and Permits
- Family, Health, and Safety
- Taxes and Finance
- Agriculture and Environment
- Travel and Transportation
